Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow.

The small Texas school that I went to had a tradition carried out every year during the eighthgrade graduation: a beautiful gold and green jacket (the school colours) was awarded to the student who had maintained the grade for eight years.

The scholarship jacket — a beautiful gold and green jacket had a big gold S on the left front side and your name written in gold letters on the pocket.

My oldest sister, Rosie, had won the jacket a few years back, and I fully expected to also. I had been a straight 'A' student since the first grade and in the eighth grade had looked forward very much to owning that jacket.

My father was a farm labourer who couldn't earn enough money to feed eight children, so when I was six I was given to my grandparents to raise. We couldn't participate in sports at school because there were registration fees, uniform costs, and trips out of town; so, even though our family was quite agile and athletic there would never be a school sports jacket for us. This one, the scholarship jacket, was our only chance.

Another hour of sweating in basketball was coming up and I was walking up to the gym. Then I remembered my P.E. shorts and I had to walk all the way back and get them. I was almost back at my classroom door when I heard voices raised in anger as if in some sort of argument.

I recognised the voices: Mr. Schmidt, my history teacher, and Mr. Boone, my math teacher, seemed to be arguing about me. I heard them say 'Martha' and I couldn't believe it. "Martha has a straight A-plus average and you know it." That was Mr. Schmidt and he sounded very angry. "I refuse to do it! I don't care who Joann's father is, her grades don't even begin to compare to Martha's," he continued. My heart sank.

	Comprehension:
	Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow.
	The room in which the boys were fed, was a large stone hall, with a copper vessel at one end,out of which the master ladled the gruel at mealtimes. Of this festive composition each boy had one bowl, and no more — except on occasions of great public rejoicing, when he had twoounces and a quarter of bread besides. The bowls never wanted washing. The boys polished them with their spoons till they shone again; and when they had performed this operation, they would sit staring at the copper vessel with eager eyes employing themselves, meanwhile, in sucking their fingers.
	Oliver Twist and his companions suffered the tortures of slow starvation for three months; atlast they got so voracious and wild with hunger, that one boy, who was tall for his age, hinted darkly to his companions, that unless he had another basin of gruel, he was afraid he might some night happen to eat the boy who slept next to him. He had a wild, hungry eye; and they implicitly believed him. A council was held; lots were cast about who should walk up to themaster after supper that evening, and ask for more; and it fell to Oliver Twist. The evening arrived; the boys took their places.
	The gruel was served. The boys whispered to each other, and winked at Oliver; while his next neighbors nudged him. Oliver rose from the table; and advancing to the master, basin and spoon in hand, said, "Please, sir, I want some more." The master aimed a blow at Oliver's head and shrieked aloud.

Comprehension:

Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow.

He was an old man who fished alone in a skiff in the Gulf Stream and he had gone eighty-four days now without a fish. In the first forty days a boy had been with him. But after forty days without a fish, the boy's parents had told him that the old man was definitely most unlucky, and the boy had gone at their orders in another boat which caught three good fish the first week. It made the boy sad to see the old man come in each day with his skiff empty and he always went down to help him carry either the coiled lines or the gaff and harpoon and the sail that was furled around the mast. The sail was patched with flour sacks and, furled, it looked like the flag of permanent defeat. The old man was thin and gaunt with deep wrinkles in the back of his neck. Brown blotches ran well down the sides of his face and his hands had the deep-creased scarsfrom handling heavy fish on the cords. But none of these scars were fresh. Everything about him was old except his eyes and they were the same color as the sea andwere cheerful and undefeated. "Santiago," the boy said to him as they climbed the bank from where the skiff was hauled up."I could go with you again. We've made some money." The old man had taught the boy to fish and the boy loved him."No," the old man said. "You're with a lucky boat. Stay with them!" SubQuestion No: 22 Q.22 Which of the following does NOT describe the old man's situation? Ans imes 1. He was thin with wrinkles, and had marks on his hands.

X 2. His old and battered boat was a symbol of defeat.

X 3. Though old, he was not feeling hopeless.

4. He felt dejected and had lost hope.

On September 29, World Heart Day, organisations across India hold camps to help the public"know their numbers" - blood pressure (BP), blood sugar and body weight. A BP of 120/80 mmHg (millimetre mercury) or below is considered normal. More than 140/90, signifying Stage 1 hypertension, and more than 160/100, signifying Stage 2, candamage the brain, eyes, heart and kidneys. When studying blood pressure, scientists have been intrigued by the giraffe, the gentle giantof Africa. How does it pump blood through its body that rises to 18 feet? With what force does it pump blood up the six-foot-long neck to its brain? What protects the giraffe from giddiness as it bends down to drink water and then lifts its head up? Despite standing almostall the time, why doesn't a giraffe faint? The answers to these questions hold answers to protect human beings from brain haemorrhage due to high BP and fainting due to low BP. The giraffe's strong heart generates a pressure of 300 mmHg needed to pump blood all theway up its long neck. Yet, when scientists measured the BP in its brain, it was a constant 120/80 mmHg. A network of blood vessels in the upper neck helps reduce the BP. The network and valves in major veins maintain a constant pressure in the giraffe's brain even when it stoops to drink water and lifts its neck up to its full height. Human beings lack this stabilising mesh and need to protect the brain by other means - avoiding tobacco, consuming less salt, coping with stress, taking medicines and above all bydetecting hypertension through periodic check-ups. The giraffe doesn't have these complications! Standing still for long, weak leg muscles and the effects of some medicines can cause pooling of blood in the legs, lowering the BP. Getting up from bed suddenly, stiff arteries and reduced water intake can sometimes cause a significant drop in BP on standing up. Whateverthe cause, dizziness due to low BP is often relieved by allowing blood to flow freely into the brain by making the patient lie flat on the ground. Lifting the legs facilitates the flow of blood. SubQuestion No: 21 Q.21 "Avoiding tobacco, consuming less salt, coping with stress, taking medicines". In whatcontext does the writer mention these things? Ans 1. Humans need to do these to protect their brain. 2. Doctors tell us this. 3. Giraffes do not do all these. 4. All these are social evils.
